

Ms. Ensminger's News

Week of 1/7

Happy New Year to you and your family! Next week should be quiet as we get back into our "normal" routine. You are welcome to join us for the all school Mass on Tuesday at 8:00 am.

6th Grade Science: Our test is Monday. We have reviewed and prepared for the test together so students will be ready. We are going to start a scientist project involving a scientist who changed our knowledge and the world. Ms. Fox is teaming up with us to bring research and technology to our projects.

5th Grade Science: We will be finishing our STREAM build, which the class decided is due Tuesday. After we present our vehicles, we will begin learning some biology. We will start talking about how structures and adaptations help plants and animals survive and thrive.

5th Grade Religion: The class decided our Christmas STREAM builds should be due Tuesday, so after we present the amazing work we will begin a new unit. We are going to learn about how God shares Himself with us through the Mass. We will talk about each part of the service and how each part celebrates our relationship with God.

Happy January,
Ms. JoAnn Ensminger
